

Chalk

Reading Activity Sheet

Book: Chalk by Bill Thompson, a story with no words

Name: _____

Follow along as you read and draw your own version of each item (or take a picture of your own chalk drawings)!

Sun	Butterfly
Dinosaur	Rain

Now, what would YOU draw with the magic chalk?

Wordless stories encourage creative thinking! Here are some questions to consider as you read:

1. Look at the cover. What do you think the book is about?
2. Read the title. Do you think it explains what might be shown in the book?
3. "Read" the story by exploring the pictures. Do you see any clues that travel from one page to the next?
4. Your turn! Tell your own version of the story.
5. Ask questions. Which is your favorite illustration? How do you think the kids feel when they see their drawings come to life?

Check out these other books with no words at your local library, or ask a grown-up for help searching for read-alouds online:

- I Walk With Vanessa: a Story About a Simple Act of Kindness by Kerascoët
- Fly! by Mark Teague
- Another by Christian Robinson
- Field Trip to the Moon by John Hare
- Pool by JiHyeon Lee

